Coverage & quality

Period: 1 January 2016 – 1 April 2016 (UTC converted to SA time).

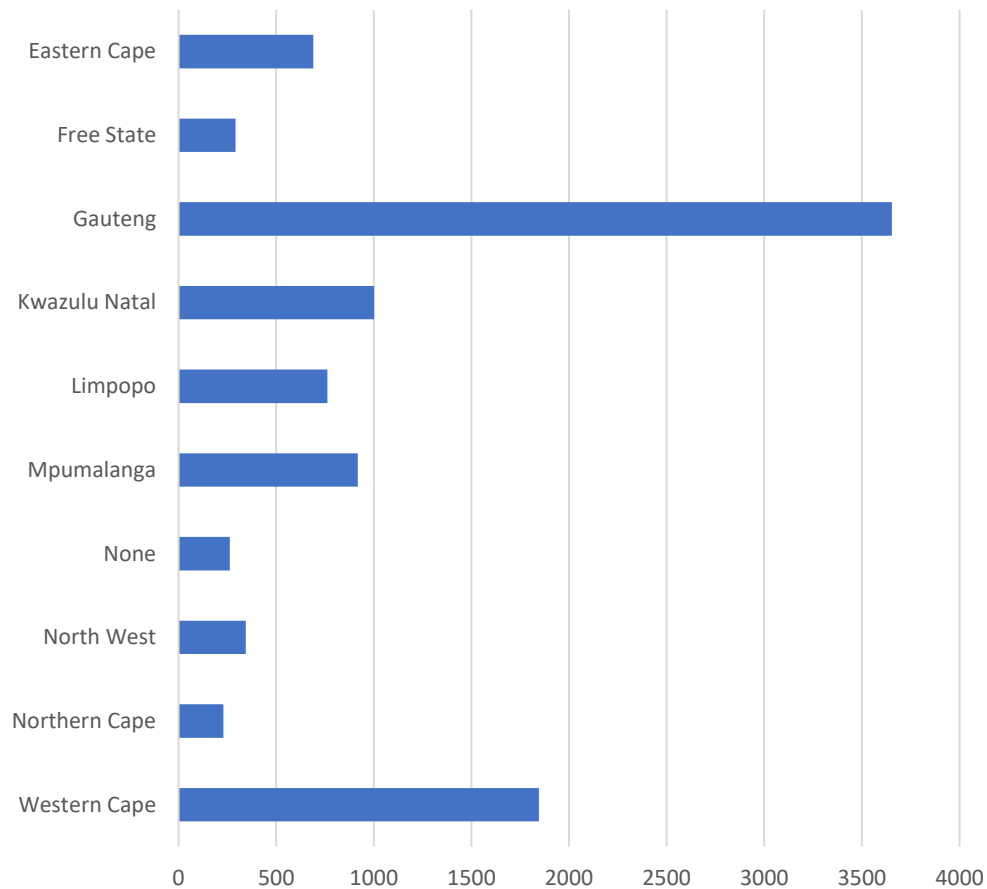

- Demographic gaps: Race missing on 11% of sessions; Gender / Province missing on ~3%.
- Each row = one viewing session, enabling per-session behavioural analysis.
- Recommendation: Strengthen sign-up and profile-completion flows to close demographic gaps.

A young, male-skewed, urban audience

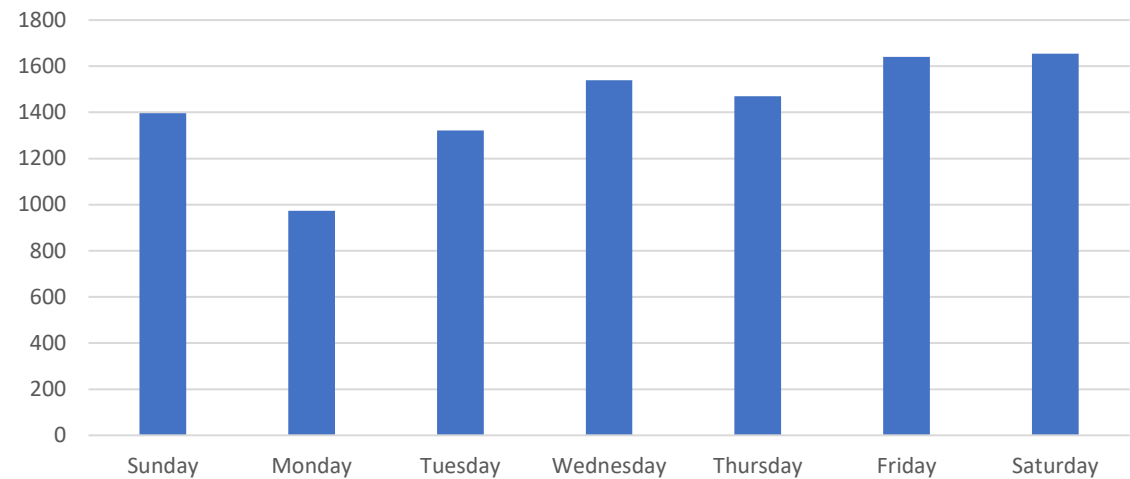

Where and when audiences tune in

Streams by Province

Sessions by Day of the week

Key signals

- Gauteng + Western Cape = 60% of viewing time.
 - Most urbanized provinces in South Africa
 - has a strong middle-class population
 - high internet penetration and access to TV services
- Saturday is the #1 day; Monday consumption drops by ~60%.
- Prime time is 12:00–18:00 SA — peaks at 16:00–17:00.

Four factors explain most viewing behaviour

Demographics

Males 26–45 dominate watch-time. Females and 60+ are heavily under-represented — a clear acquisition gap.

Geography

Urban metros (Gauteng, W. Cape, KZN) drive volume. Northern Cape & Free State are < 5% of streams combined.

Content type

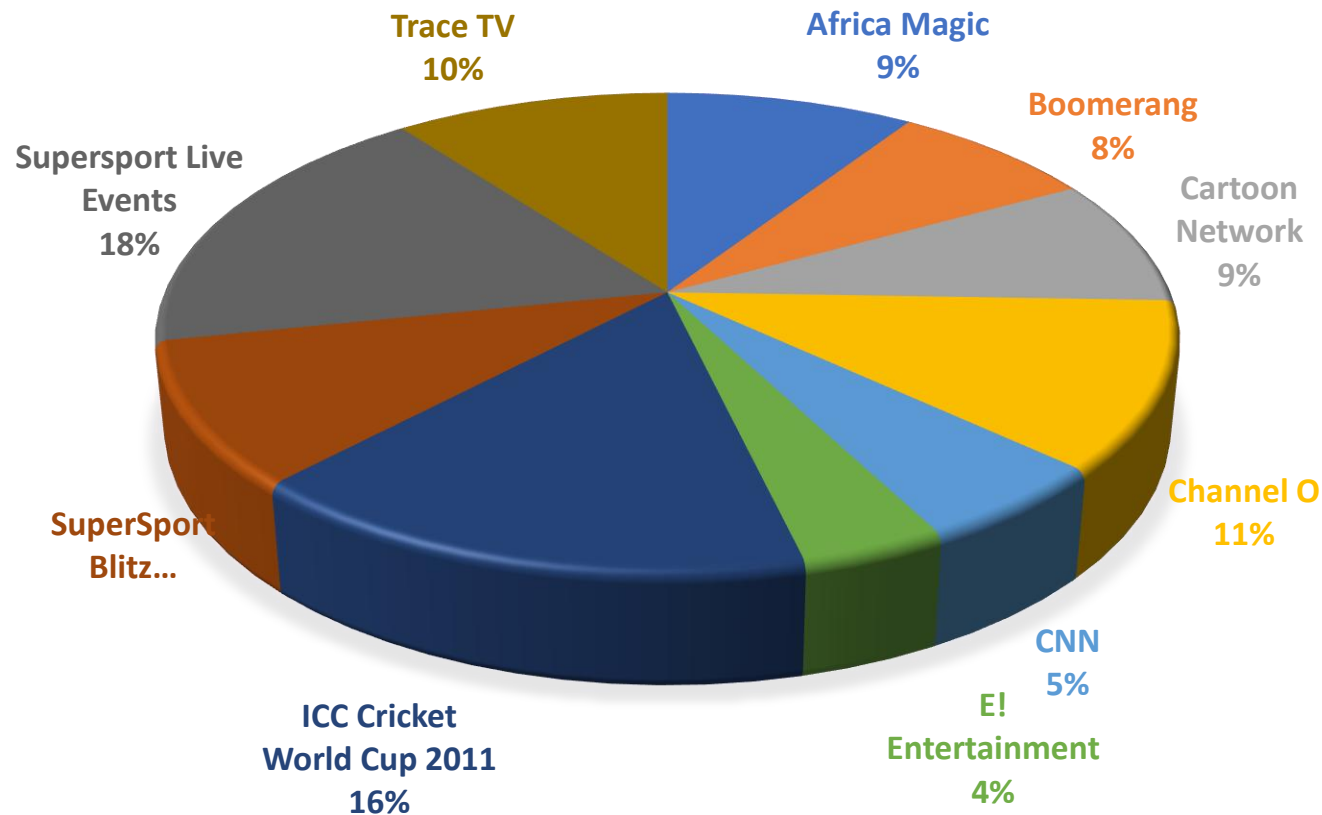

Live sport (Cricket WC, SuperSport) and music channels (Channel O, Trace TV) generate the longest sessions.

Timing

Weekend afternoons and weekday late-afternoon (16:00–18:00) are the highest-engagement windows.

Sport and music dominate watch-time

MOST POPULAR CHANNELS

What this tells us

- SuperSport Live Events and ICC Cricket World Cup 2011 leads with the highest sessions, indicating strong engagement for live sports content
- Channel O and Trace TV also perform well, suggesting strong interest in music and entertainment
- Kids content (Boomerang, Cartoon Network) anchors family viewing.
- Long-tail channels (Wimbledon, MK, Vuzu) under-perform — review line-up.

Programming for Mondays, Sundays & late-night slots

The opportunity

- Monday is 60% below Saturday peak — biggest single-day gap.
- Sunday underperforms Saturday by ~37%.
- 00:00–06:00 represents <8% of daily hours — under-utilised inventory.
- Female and 18–25 segments are the largest unmet audiences to target.

Content recommendations

1

Monday Night Live Sport

Acquire Premier League / PSL Monday matches to extend the SuperSport halo into the weakest day.

2

Sunday Family Movie Premieres

Anchor Sunday evenings with marquee Africa Magic / M-Net premieres to rival Saturday.

3

Late-Night Music & Reality

Channel O and E! Entertainment marathons targeting 18–25 viewers between 22:00–02:00.

4

Female-Skew Originals

Commission lifestyle, drama and reality blocks to close the 90/10 male:female watch-time gap.

Five plays to expand the subscriber base

01

Female-Focused Acquisition

Bundle lifestyle, drama and reality content; partner with female creators on social.

02

Regional Expansion Push

Local-language programming for Limpopo, KZN and Eastern Cape with telco data bundles.

03

Sports Super-Bundle

Tiered "Sports+" plan around live cricket, football and SuperSport blitz packages.

04

Family & Kids Plan

Parental controls + Boomerang/Cartoon library marketed to 26–45 parents.

05

Referral & Win-Back

Reward existing subscribers for referrals; targeted win-back for lapsed Monday-only viewers.

90-day execution plan

0–30 days

Quick wins

- Launch Monday Night Sport block
- Profile-completion email campaign
- Female-skew content shelf on home page

30–60 days

Acquisition

- Telco bundle pilot in Limpopo & KZN
- Referral programme launch
- Win-back offers to lapsed viewers

60–90 days

Scale

- Sports+ super-bundle launch
- Family plan with parental controls
- Lifestyle originals slate green-light

What CVM should remember

1

Audience is concentrated

Male, 26–45, urban — huge headroom in females, youth and rural.

2

Sport & music win

Live sport drives the longest, most loyal sessions.

3

Mondays are the gap

60% below peak — programmable with the right hook.

4

Bundle to grow

Sports+, Family and telco bundles unlock new segments.
